60 YEARS HEAT RECORD BROKEN IN SHANGHAI

Hottest June Day Since 1873:
Many Cases of Heat Prostration

Shanghai, June 26.

A record maximum temperature for the month of June since the foundation of the Siccawel Observatory in 1873 was registered on their instruments yesterday, when the mercury suddenly soared to 101.5 degrees Fahrenheit.

Even in the shade of the comparatively cool garden of Holy Trinity Cathedral the registration was 100.5, a jump from the day before of no less than 11.5 degrees. The nearest to this ever recorded was 100.4 degrees, which was noted in June 1893, at Siccawel. As compared with the same date last year, there was an increase this year of 9.5 degrees. The average, calculated over 61 years is only 94.5 degrees maximum for the month.

The intense heat caused considerable suffering in the city, both in man and beast, and many heat prostrations occurred. Details of the total number are as yet lacking, although it is believed that there were no really serious cases.

Although the majority of Shanghai's citizens perhaps fortunately did not realize the extent of the heat wave which hit the city yesterday, complaints were universal, and the news of the record being exceeded will not come as a surprise. All those who were unfortunate enough to be forced to brave downtown streets knew that it was out of the ordinary. Walking up Nanking Road from the Bund, in the towering canyon between the Palace and Cathay Hotels, was like walking towards the mouth of an open furnace, as the breeze blew in hot gusts, that made the pedestrian gasp for air.

Unconventional attire gradually became the order of the day as the sun climbed higher in the heavens. There was no warning of the extraordinary noon-time heat, as, at 9 a.m., the official thermometers read only 88.2 degrees. Long before evening had come, shorts made an appearance on numbers of stalwart menfolk and the afternoon changes of the fair sex became, if possible, even more diaphanous than ever.

By evening, unconventional hardly expressed the appearance of a great many of residents. Coats had, for the most part, entirely disappeared and towels, rather than handkerchiefs, mopped many a brow. Walking became an agony, even to those with stout-soled shoes and as for the bare-footed coolies, many of them frankly gave up and sought the shaded spots to give relief to their burning feet.

Many Cases Of Heatstroke

All were not so fortunate and there were many cases of prostration through heatstroke. During the day a "North-China Daily News" representative saw two rickshaw coolies collapse while pulling their passengers, though fortunately, both were able to walk away after immediate relief measures. The only am'ulance call during the day for heatstroke was to Yangtze-poo Police Station where the wife of a Chinese Police Constable was prostrated at 6.45 p.m. after the intense heat during the day. She was conveyed to the Sacred Heart Hospital where it is reported that her condition is not serious.

Evening Brings Crowds

As evening approached, an onlooker with a capricious eye must have watched with amazement the sudden appearance of hundreds of thousands of the Chinese population on the streets. It must have appeared like the blossoming of a strange plant, as they sought relief from the day's heat in the coolness of the evening breezes which swept down the streets. Especially in the neighbourhood of tall buildings, the pavements were crowded as hundreds squatted in the winds which sweep around these edifices at all times.

The Bund foreshore presented an animated appearance until a late hour as hundreds of people strolled in the fresh air from the river, or lay on the grass, content to lie still and breathe freely. When time for sleep arrived, many hundreds were seen preparing to spend the night asleep on door-steps or in alleyways away from the feet of passers-by. It might have been the hottest day of July or August and not in the balmy month of June.

A Blessing To Some

For some, however, the heat was a blessing. While sitting in a well known oculist's store in Nanking Road between the hours of 11 and 12 yesterday morning a local resident reports that they were doing a "land-office" business in sun glasses. Ice companies were rushed beyond all expectations and were hard put to it to keep up with the demand. Large manufacturers and wholesalers of soft drinks, despite their usual preparations for summer, were almost caught napping when orders poured in a steady stream throughout the day. And municipal closing regulations alone sent many hundreds of others home from the many spots where it is possible to sit still and keep cool with assistance.

Pessimistic Forecast

Already the gloomy pessimists who have been dinnning into the ears of unwilling and, due to the cool weather till now, incredulous hearers vicious prophecies of an unusually hot summer, are wearing that self-satisfied smile. Even Siccawel offers no relief for their forecast for to-day reads: "Cloudy and hot, with south-easterly to south-westerly winds in our regions."

EATING IN WATER

Exhibition At North Point

A huge crowd of swimming enthusiasts were treated to an exceptional exhibition of trick swimming and life-saving, by members of the Chinese Y.M.C.A. at North Point on Saturday afternoon.

One of the features of the afternoon was the display of Au Yeung-king, a veteran Chinese swimmer of America, who floated solidly on the surface for half an hour after which he ate, drank and pulled off his socks in the water.

Au Yeung-king who recently returned from America is over 60 years of age.

A class of 15 members of the "Y" Life-Saving Class displayed various methods of rescue and release and also gave an exhibition of the various styles of swimming.

In bringing the exhibition to a successful conclusion Yueng Yuk-kun was tied up and put into a sack and then thrown into the water. He however, broke loose and soon came to the surface amidst a storm of cheering.

Sampans and Dragon boat swimming brought plenty of laughs from all round.

HARRY MASON WINS BOXING TITLE

Smith Disqualified

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 14.

Harry Mason, of London, won the British welter-weight championship at Birmingham last night, when his opponent, Len ("Tiger") Smith (Birmingham) was disqualified for a low blow in the fourteenth round of a 15-round contest.

In the fifth round Mason's eye was cut and in the ninth the Londoner was driven all over the ring. A terrific left to the stomach sent him down for a count of seven.

Smith continued to pile up points, and in the eleventh round only the gong saved Mason from a knock-out. For the third time the Londoner appealed to the referee for a low punch.

In the twelfth and thirteenth rounds Mason evidently realising that he was behind on points, showed more spirit, and got Smith to the ropes, but the latter broke away and sent over some wild punches. The end came when Smith was disqualified for a low blow.

There was a scene at the finish, but Smith showed no sign of repentment, and appeared delighted when Mason announced that he was prepared to give him a return match soon. The crowd was one of the biggest ever seen at a fight in Birmingham.

BLACKSHIRTS WARNED

By Home Secretary

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, June 14.

Blackshirt brutality, as displayed at Olympia last week, and the question of Government action, are to be the subject of a full-dress debate in the House of Commons on Thursday. The Whips of the different parties have agreed on a rearrangement of the business of the House, so that the sitting may be reserved for a debate on Home Office affairs.

The Home Secretary, Sir John Gilmour, indicated yesterday, in reply to questions, that if such disorder were repeated the Executive would be given further power. The police would then take over the maintenance of order at public meetings, instead of leaving that to irresponsible stewards.

Lord Trenchard, the Commissioner of Police, visited Sir John Gilmour at the Home Office before this statement was made.

Afterwards Sir John attended a meeting of Ministers at 10, Downing-street. Mr. Elliot and Mr. Ormsby-Gore, who criticised the Fascist movement in speeches during the week-end, were present.

EXPLORER'S GREAT FILM

Rasmussen's Last Testament

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 14.

What promises to be one of the most interesting national documents ever filmed is now playing to crowded houses at the largest cinema in Copenhagen. This is Knud Rasmussen's film of Greenland, "The Bride of Palé" on which the great explorer was working, and which he had nearly completed, at the time of his death.

Rasmussen had long planned this picture as a tribute to the life and traditions of the ice-bound land that he loved, and, in company with Dr. Dahlheim, a Danish German travelogue expert, he was engaged on an enterprise not unlike that of Robert Flaherty's "Nanook." No professional actors were included in the expedition, and no studio shots were allowed for in the script.

The story played entirely by the Angmagalik Eskimos, tells of the rivalry between two great hunters, Palo and Sarno, for the girl Navarana, and the whole film is shadowed by the menace of storm and icy water, and made vivid by its scenes of ice-bear hunts, kayak races, salmon catching, village feasting and glimpses of the native children sunning themselves amongst the flowers of the short Greenland summer.

"The Bride of Palé," finally assembled and edited according to Rasmussen's original manuscript, is regarded in Denmark as such an important contribution to modern knowledge that the Ministry of Education has granted it an exemption from the entertainment tax, and Prime Minister Stauning, himself a personal friend of Rasmussen's, has contributed a prologue to the film.

JENNY DOLLY

Fined £150,000

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 14.

Miss Jenny Dolly was fined 11,470,405 francs (about £150,000 at current rates) by the Correctional Court of Paris for evasion of a luxury tax payment on a diamond ring.

The ring was worth 4,000,000 francs (about £53,300), and the tax on it should have been 500,000 francs (about £6,660).

It was sold at auction recently with other Dolly jewels.

The prosecution alleged that in January 1929 Miss Jenny Dolly bought at Cannes a ring worth over £50,000 but declared that the ring was to be taken out of France.

SHIP'S BELL FOR CATHEDRAL

Canterbury's Link
With The Sea

London, June 14.

A short but extremely moving service for seafarers, held in the cathedral this afternoon, made a picturesque and impressive opening to the Festival of Music and Drama held annually by the Friends of Canterbury Cathedral. As soon as the imposing procession of clerical and lay dignitaries had entered, the First Lord of the Admiralty, Sir Bolton Eyres-Monson, presented to the cathedral the ship's bell of H.M.S. Canterbury, which was carried in by two sailors lately serving in the ship, while the band of the Royal Marines from Chatham played "Hearts of Oak."

The gift was accepted on behalf of the Dean and Chapter by the Dean (Dr. Hewlett Johnson), and as the Cathedral clock was heard striking 3 A.M. Sir Percy Roys, who commanded the Canterbury during the war, struck six bells.

Then followed the service, for which extracts from the 107th Psalm ("They that go down to the sea in ships"), Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," the Prayer for the Navy, and the hymn, "Eternal Father, Strong to save," had been most happily chosen. At the close, the National Anthem was sung.

For the future every week-day morning at eleven o'clock a serving, or retired sailor, is to strike six bells, to show that the Cathedral keeps its seafarers in remembrance.

A packed congregation of 5,000 took part in the service, and included sailors from the Navy and every branch of the Merchant Service. The Prince of Wales in his dual capacity as Friend of the Cathedral and Master of the Merchant Navy and Fishing Fleets, sent a letter regretting that he could not be present.

Play in Chapter House

In the evening the dramatic side of the Festival was inaugurated with a performance of Laurence Binyon's play, "The Young King."

No play staged in the beautiful Chapter House in the Cloisters can well fail to satisfy the eye, especially when a designer of Lawrence Irving's eminence has had charge of dresses and settings. Besides that, Eileen Thorndike, with her exceptionally wide experience of staging plays in buildings not expressly designed for that purpose, has contrived her production wonderfully well. Although all her players have to make their entrances and exits by the main door, and pass through the audience on their way to and from the stage, she never allows the tempo of the acting to be interrupted.

The Cathedral Players, a company composed of amateur actors with a sprinkling of professionals, back her up nobly, and speak Mr. Binyon's blank verse with dignity and clearness. Ronald Adam as Henry II, Peter Trevelyan as his refractory son Henry ("the Young King"), Mary Casson as the Young King's wife, Philip Hollingworth as Bertrand de Born, and several others give striking performances.

The play itself, however, which was written ten years ago for production in John Massfield's private theatre, is not impressive. It is, in fact, disjointed and disappointing. Its air of literary distinction cannot disguise a complete absence of dramatic quality.

The story does not move, nor do the characters live. Indeed, if it were not for a full explanation given in the programme of the historical events with which the play deals, the relations between King Henry and his son could scarcely have been comprehended at all by to-night's audience.

and so did not have to pay the luxury tax.

The ring is then alleged to have been sent to London, together with half of one of her visiting cards.

The other half, declared the prosecution, was taken to London by her secretary, who received the ring from the London jeweller on presentation of his part of the card.

The secretary was stated to have returned to Paris with the ring without paying any duty.

Miss Dolly told the court that she knew nothing of "all these stories."

ARMY PROMOTIONS

To Be Speeded Up

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 14.

Important recommendations to the speeding up of promotions in the senior officer ranks of the Army are, it is understood, contained in the Report now presented of the Stanhope Committee.

One of the principal proposals is for the "seeding" of officers of promise by the classification into two lists of officers promoted to colonel or major-general.

One list will comprise exceptional officers who are expected to reach the highest grades.

Officers on the other list receive one appointment after promotion and then retire, the making way for their juniors much quicker than at present.

LESSON SERMON

"Christian Science" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in the Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, July 1st.

The Golden Text was: "Let aside all malice, and all guile, hypocrisies, and envies, all evil speakings, as newborn babes desire the sincere milk of the word that ye may grow thereby." (Peter 2: 1, 2).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was following from the Bible: "A tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit. Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire. Therefore by their fruits ye shall know them." (Matt. 7: 17-20).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christian Science awakens the sinner, reclaims the 'fidel' and raises from the couch of pain the helpless invalid. It speaks to the dumb the words of Truth; and the answer with rejoicing. It causes the deaf to hear, the lame to walk, and the blind to see. Who would be the first to 'disown' the Christ-ness of good works, when our Master said, 'By their fruits ye shall know them?' (p. 342).

Padgham Wins Leeds Tournament

(Special Air-mail Service)
London, June 14.

A. H. Padgham (Sundridge Park) won the "Yorkshire Evening News" tournament at Moortown on Saturday, beating S. F. Brews (Durban), an Englishman attached to a South African club, at the 37th hole. It was a fine match and the loser covered himself with almost as much glory as his conqueror. He was two up at one point in the morning and finished the first round one up. Padgham, as will be recalled recently won the Dunlop-Southport tournament.

Padgham held a slight advantage in the matter of length, but Brews proved that a man who can putt is a match for anyone, and he was up more often than not in the first round. Both men were round in 71. Brews had taken three putts only once, but he faltered afterwards and the errors proved costly. One occasion was on the 35th green of the match, when he only halved a hole he should have won, and ten, on the first green for the third time during the day. Brews again took three putts and Padgham, cool as always in a crisis, holed out for a 4 and victory.

Although the tournament has been in existence for only 12 years, five of the finals have gone beyond the last green.

TWO FINE ROUNDS

Two long shots and a putt to the lip of the hole won Brews the first hole, where Padgham was over the green in 2 and too strong with his recovery. He holed out from 10 yards to square at the second, but was behind again at the third. Padgham pulling his drive into the rough and putting his second in a bunker. Brews increased his lead at the fifth, where Padgham drove out of bounds, but he lost the sixth, through taking three putts after Padgham had failed to reach the green, and the seventh, where he was bunkered in 2 and Padgham had a 3. Two halves left the game all square at the turn. Padgham being out in 34 to 35. Padgham was over the green at the 10th and again too strong with his recovery, as at the first. He lost that hole, and became two down for the second time, at the 13th, where Brews holed out from eight yards for a 3. Brews almost holed from 12 yards for a 2 at the short 14th, which was halved, but he lost a hole of his lead at the 16th, being short all the way. The last two holes were halved, so that Brews went in to luncheon with a lead of one hole. Both men were round in 71.

Padgham fell farther behind at the start of the second round, falling to hole out from two yards at the first, after Brews had got down from about the same distance. After a half at the second Padgham won three of the next four holes to gain the lead. Brews pulled his second into the rough at the third before going over the green with his next, failed to find the green with his tee shot to the short fourth, and missed from 5ft. after over-running the hole with a little run-up at the sixth. Padgham was now in front for the first time and he still held that advantage at the turn. Brews missing a chance by taking three putts at the eighth after Padgham had been bunkered.

Brews squared the match at the 10th, holing out from four yards, and led again when he got down from 12 yards for a 2 at the 12th, but Padgham drew level when chance by taking three putts at the 14th and chipped back weakly. Four halves followed, Brews missing a change by taking three putts at the 17th, and so they had to go out again. At the extra hole both were on the green in 2, but Brews putting to within 4ft. of the hole, missed from there and so lost the match Padgham was round in 72 to his opponent's 73.

NO DEATH SENTENCES

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Dessau, June 28.
The demand of eleven death sentences by the State Attorney drew a striking rebuff from the Bench here on Friday in the second trial of the Communists for the murder of a stormtrooper when the Court sentenced the two principal defendants to nine and six years' hard labour respectively, and six other to three and four years each, and acquitted the remaining three. MR. MAYNARD KEYNES

"A Stimulus To Business"

Mr. Maynard Keynes visited the President of the United States last month and, according to authoritative indications, informed him that by spending $400,000,000, or £80,000,000, monthly of borrowed public money he could hope to impart a stimulus to business. Did he on his way to the White House recall a personal anniversary dating from the rejection of prophesies addressed to his own country? Readers of the justly famous "Economic Consequences of the Peace" can verify that it was at the end of the first June week of 1919 that Mr. Keynes resigned his positions at the Treasury and on the Supreme Economic Council in Paris: "when it became evident that hope could no longer be entertained of substantial modification in the draft terms of 'peace.' The modifications of which Mr. Keynes had vainly tried to make the British Government the advocate he now proceeded to advocate himself in a book, which within a few weeks of his resignation fifteen years ago, was making history.

One admirer of Mr. Keynes, who could not quite square the alleged—authoritatively alleged—advice of last month to President Roosevelt with memories of the advice given fifteen years ago to Mr. Lloyd George (and no doubt also to President Wilson), re-read the "Economic Consequences" in order to attain a view of what Mr. Keynes was at that time really after, and to compare it with what he is, or seems to be, after at the present moment.

What Mr. Keynes at that time most feared—as is shown abundantly in chapters 1 and 2 of his book—was that we in England should expect to go on progressing in wealth as before the war, while rejecting the theory and practice of accumulation (or saving) which had conducted to that progress. He wrote: "Where we spent millions before the war we have now learned that we can spend hundreds of millions and apparently not suffer from it. All classes alike thus build their plans, the rich to spend more and to save less, the poor to spend more and work less."

Against this happy-go-lucky delusion Mr. Keynes invoked what he called a demon. He suggested that up to 1900 we had been witnessing a period of exceptional bounteousness of nature in response to man's efforts, but that after 1900 we had begun to come once again on diminishing yield. He strongly hinted that the diminution might intensify unless the capitalists kept up the old game of saving. On the dangers of inflation he was impressively eloquent:

"There is no subtler, no surer means of overturning the existing basis of society than to debauch the currency. The process engaged all the hidden forces of economic law on the side of destruction, and does it in a manner not one man in a million is able to disguise." All that was written fifteen years ago. Since then we have come up against many currents and have tacked to one side and to the other, as our best wisdom dictated. Mr. Keynes has often enough warned us, rightly, as we now see, against the particular movement we were about to execute. Why should he be expected to write the same things in 1934 which he wrote in 1919? The circumstances are strikingly different. But is the world so changed that nothing then said is applicable to-day? The central insistence of the celebrated and classical book of 1919 is summed up in these words:

"It is for those who believe that Germany can make an annual payment amounting to hundreds of millions sterling to say in what specific commodities they intend this payment to be made, and in what markets the goods are to be sold."

"Away from this glib talk of millions and milliards of money," urged Mr. Keynes (not quite in these words). "Only by thinking out the meaning of these figures in terms of things can you regain sanity." How right he was, and how foolish were all the attacks then and since made upon him for his work as the destructor or repatriator. And how necessary it seems that he should to-day take his own advice and, when urging the United States Government to assume new indebtedness at perhaps a greater rate than it has ever seriously suggested the Reich could pay for reparations, should explain in detail the manner in which Washington could recover its ex-

WEEK-END BATHING PICNICS

Dense Crowds At Big
Wave Bay

In spite of the showery weather which prevailed all Saturday afternoon, three Bathing Picnics took place and Big Wave Bay and other popular beaches were densely populated.

About 30 members of the Hong Kong Union Church Young People's Society left the Queen's Pier at 2.45 p.m. by the Taikee Choy for Big Wave Bay where an interesting programme of aquatic and Beach sports took place.

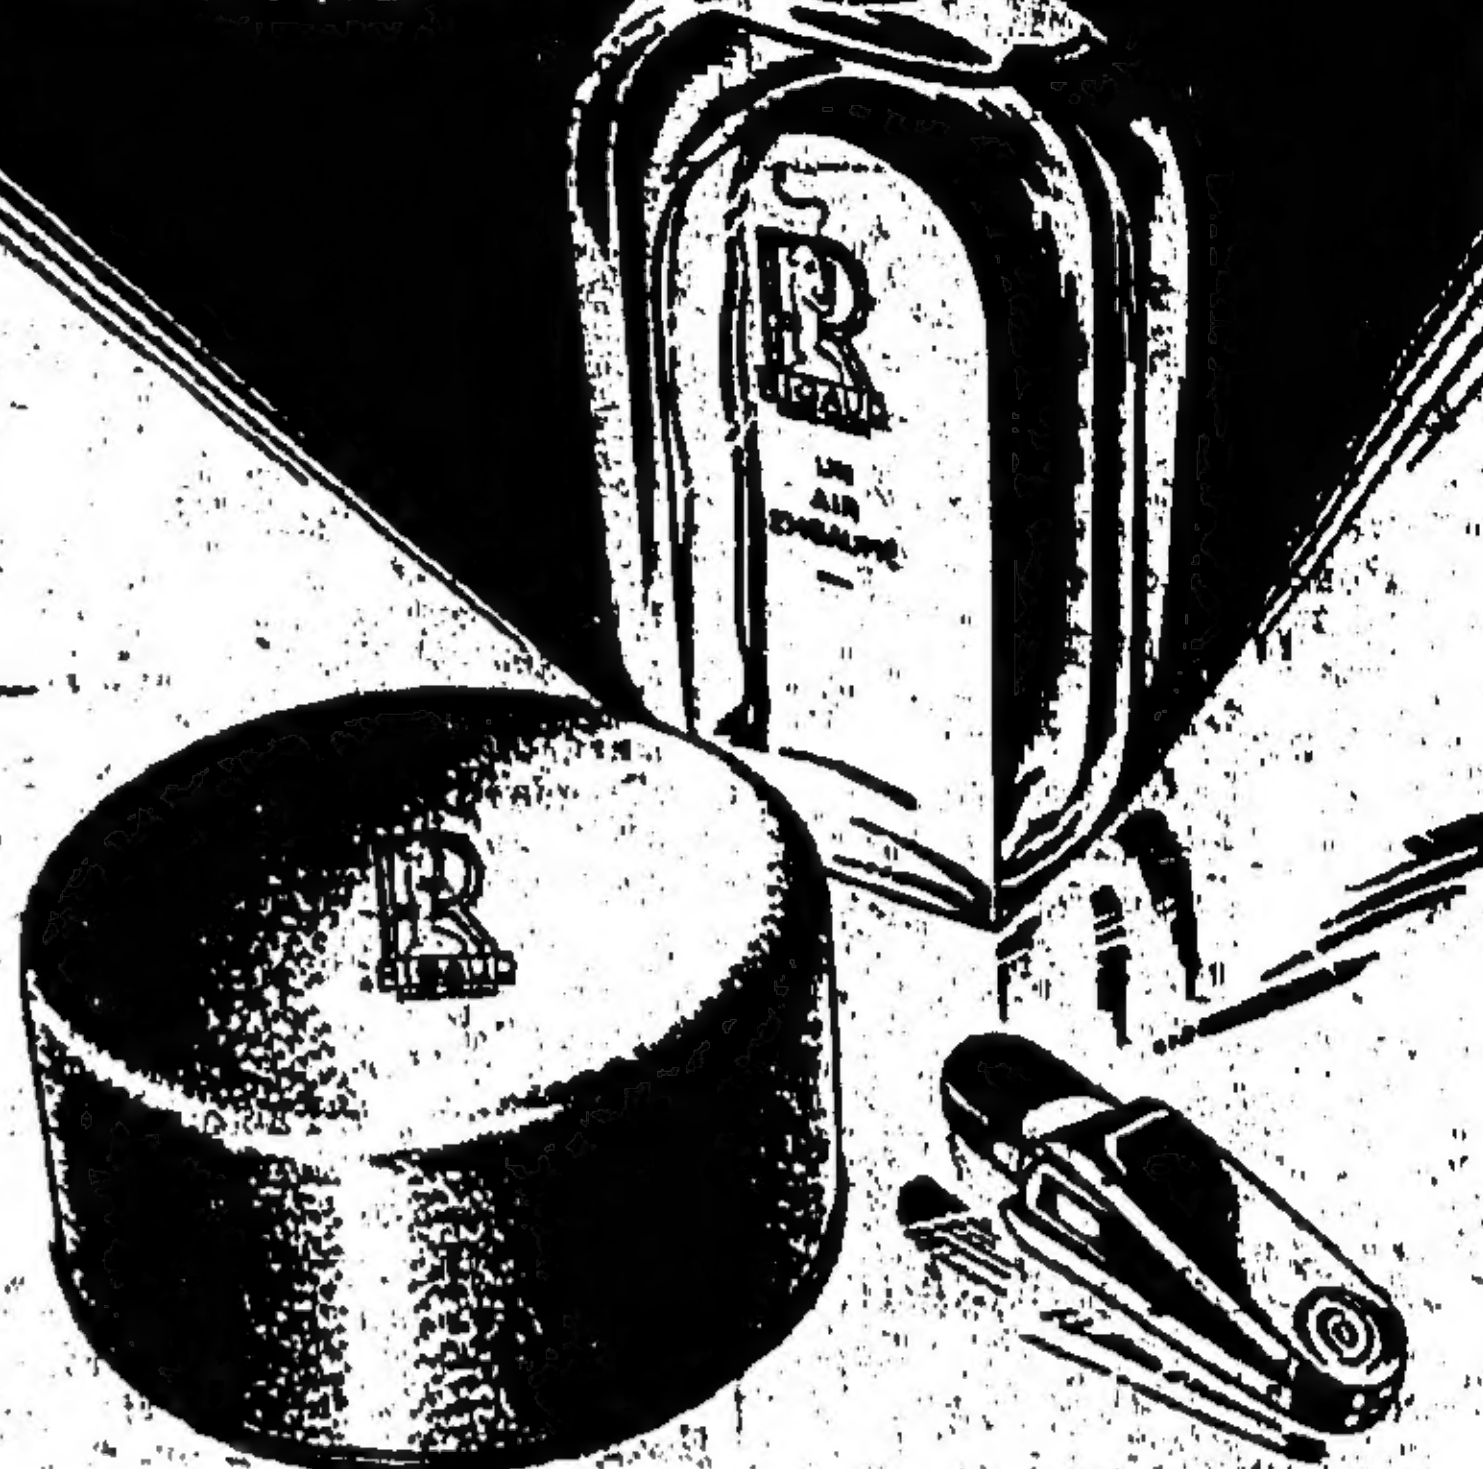

The Kowloon branch of the same Society held a similar launch picnic at Deep Water Bay, when 50 adults and 20 children left the Police Pier at 2.30 p.m. and returned at about 7 p.m.

Another launch picnic making their rendezvous at Big Wave Bay was that of the St. Andrew's Club when over 100 members and friends attended.

"SPITFIRE"

Katharine Hepburn's
New Film

London, June 14.
It is rare for Hollywood to make films in which character matters more than event. The new picture at the Plaza commands attention not only for the attempt but for its success. This is mainly because the players in "Spitfire" are well cast. Katharine Hepburn finds her most sympathetic role as "Trigger" Hicks, since it allows her to be both opinionated and tom-boyish. Ralph Bellamy is excellent as the man who softens both these qualities.

For reasons which should be made clearer, "Trigger" Hicks lives at war with her neighbours. She hurls stones at them. They, not unnaturally, regard her as evil.
The film should explain that her wider vision rejects their narrow beliefs. It is content only to suggest this and to show us, instead, her frequent prayers for the sick and aged. Trigger's manners and the villagers' morality make her lonely.

She believes a young engineer who says he loves her. She believes him even when his wife arrives. But she has stolen a baby.
It was ill and its parents did not know how to nurse it. She is getting it well when the villagers storm her. They are now certain she is a witch. It is not the young engineer, but his elder colleague who stands by her. The baby restored to its parents, has died.
No one sees that Trigger could have nursed it to health; they say she put a spell on it. Trigger defends herself with fiery tongue,
but she leaves.

The man who believes in her has exactied a promise that she will return in a year. She goes, then she runs back to ask if she may return sooner if she has fought out her battle with herself. The film ends leaving us assured that whatever happens to her she will have protection.

We are surprised to find ourselves caring about what happens to a screen character after the fade-out, and we realise that this is because we have seen a love much more real than is usual in films. It is a love based less on attraction than on understanding.
For drawing this distinction the director deserves our thanks. Our debt is increased by the fine settings, the integrity of the people, and the star's great improvement.
This is particularly noticeable in her voice.

MINISTER URGED TO REST

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright.))
Berlin, June 29.

The Reichs Minister of Economy,
Dr. Schmitt has been ordered by his medical advisers to take at least two weeks' entire rest. The tasks on which the Minister were engaged in the last few weeks concern extremely difficult and responsible work, including the reorganisation of the whole economic system in New Germany and a large participation in the transfer negotiations. These have proved so exhausting that at the close of his speech before the German Chambers of Commerce abroad held on Thursday the Minister collapsed. This, however, was attributed to nothing more serious than overwork, so that a rest would lead to recovery and re-invigoration—Transocean Kuo

WEDDINGNiece Of Lady Lovat
Married

(Special Air-mail Service)

London, June 14.
Miss Sarah (Sally) Lindley, the third daughter of the Hon. Sir Francis Lindley British Ambassador to Japan, and of the Hon. Lady Lindley, was married recently to Mr. Philip Grantham Yorke, of the Life Guards.

The bridegroom is the only son of the late Hon. Alfred Yorke and of the late the Hon. Mrs. Percy Thellusson.

Many well-known Scottish people attended the ceremony at St. James's Church, Spanish Place, for in addition to being a niece of Lady Lovat, the bride's brother-in-law is Captain John M'Ewen, of Marchmont and Badrochat, M.P. for Berwick and Haddington.

Lord Colum Crichton-Stuart lent his house at 22 Mansfield Street for the reception, where the many presents were displayed.

With a Halo

A cap of tulle with a halo turned back from her face was worn by the bride with her simple ivory stain wedding gown. The bodice was arranged with a high neckline with a turned-down collar, and a soft sash girdled her waist. The long rounded train was arranged to fall in one with the skirt, and over this flowed her tulle veil finished with a wide ruffled hem.

She carried a spray of orchids and lily of the valley and a white Prayer Book.

Four little girls, walking with four little boys, made a pretty picture as the bridal procession left the church. They were Miss Ruth and Master Mark Elwes, Miss Christian M'Ewen (niece of the bride), Miss Philippa Hunloke (daughter of Mr. and Lady Anne Hunloke), Miss Anne Lumley (daughter of Mrs. Roger Lumley), Master Patrick Guinness (son of Mr. Loel and the Hon. Mrs. Guinness), Master Roderick and Master Simon Fraser (the small sons of the Hon. Alastair and Lady Sybil Fraser).

Notable Guests

The pages were in white satin suits and the little girls had long frocks of white net with tiny satin bows down the fronts of the skirts. Their poke bonnets of ruffled net were trimmed with bows, and they wore the coral necklaces which were given them by the bridegroom. The pages had diamond tie-pins.

Mr. Rupert Belville acted as the best man and the Rev. Adrian Weid Blundell officiated.

The Hon. Lady Lindley received the guests at the reception assisted by her daughters, Miss Mary Lindley, Mrs. W'Ewen, and Mrs. Oscar Morland.

Others to be seen were the Countess of Haddington, Viscountess Elbank, Lord Lovat, the Dowager Lady Glenanar and Lady Anne Rhys, Lady Catherine Willoughby, Lady Alington, Viscountess Dunsford, Mrs. J. Coats and Lady Oppenheimer, the Countess of Hardwicke, Lady Anne Hunloke, Lady Jane Gore, Lady Margaret Alexander, Lady Sybil Fraser, the Countess of Darnley, Lucy Countess of Erroll, the Hon. Mrs. Stirling of Keir, the Hon. Kenneth and Mrs. Weir, and the Hon. Mrs. Henry Hope.

GOOD DAME

At The King's
TheatreThat motion picture sets play just as vital a part in the telling of a story as the movements of the actor's is the opinion of Hans Preter, general art director at the Paramount studios in Hollywood.And in direct contrast to the expansive, glamorous sets he designed for Ernst Lubitsch's
"Design for Living," Dreier cited the cheap hotel and carnival-train sets used in "Good Dame," the Sylvia Sidney-Fredric March co-starring picture, which is now playing at the King's Theatre."Our most important duty" said Dreier is to see that every detail of the background, before which the players move, has its definite bearing on the story, yet so skillfully must the artist work, that the spectator never will be conscious of the effects produced."Stories with the simple, everyday background give us the greatest problems."For instance, in "Good Dame" almost all of the action takes place in the "Pop" car on a travelling show-train, in hotel rooms and in a furnished apartment which Sylvia Sidney rents."Such sets have to be perfect in every detail. Let one false note enter the set-up and the feeling of the entire story is ruined.""These drab sets play their proportionate share in getting sympathy for the sad plight of the girl.""By contract, in "Trouble In

"Miss Fane's Baby is Stolen," we could take liberties in set construction.""Modern in every respect, the

MEN IN WHITE

Clark Gable At The
Queen's TheatreWhat will be remembered as one of the most gripping scenes on the talking picture screen takes place in "Men In White," starring Clark Gable and Myrna Loy, which had its initial showing at the Queen's Theatre yesterday.Set against the background of a hospital and society life, the film takes many a queer twist and turn;
a thrilling operation to save a girl's life will go down as an outstanding piece of realism."Men In White" is a hospital story, concerning a young surgeon who is bent on becoming one of the greatest men in his profession, in spite of an overwhelming love for a young heiress.The training for which the young surgeon is bent leaves no time for courtship. A nurse in the hospital becomes the object of the doctor's love and a development follows, which while presenting a complicated state of affairs, lends itself to many possibilities. The theme is comparatively simple but the story is nonetheless very interesting.Clark Gable, Myrna Loy and Elizabeth Allen who take the leading roles provide Hong Kong fans on a bit of unreal flavour without demy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences on three occasions.

"MY GREATEST DISAPPOINTMENT"

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 14.

When the teams walked on to the field at Nottingham there sat in the pavilion, watching them, the most disappointed man in England.

R. E. S. Wyatt, selected England captain, was kept out of the team by his injured thumb. His place was taken by Cyril Walters, of Worcestershire, who is thus captain in his first match against Australia.

The decision to play Walters for Wyatt was made so late that the waiting crowd did not know of it until Walters actually led the team out.

Wyatt, watching them, said to Bruce Harris: "It is the greatest disappointment of my life. To think that should happen on such an occasion. It is aggravating beyond words. I felt that I should have batted all right, but the prospects of further injury during fielding was the chief consideration."

Bruce Harris, by the way forecast that Wyatt would not play. "The chances of Wyatt playing," he wrote in the "Evening Standard," "are remote."

VERNA CULAR SCHOOLS

Catholic Children Receive Prizes

The annual competition for religious knowledge conducted by the Chinese Catholic Young Men's Society, among the vernacular Catholic schools in the Colony was held at the Society's hall on May 5 last, and on Saturday the prize distribution took place at Wah Yan College.

The Right Rev. Bishop Valtorta gave away the prizes and in the course of his speech, stressed the importance of religious education and said that it was better than any other form of education because it paved the way for heavenly reward.

Altogether eighteen schools entered the competition of which thirteen were girls' schools and the rest boys' schools; each school presented four candidates. The competition was divided into two sections, viz: the Senior and Junior, the questions for which were set by Rev. Father J. F. Shak of the Catholic Mission.

The answers returned by the contestants displayed a commendable knowledge of Religion, and in several cases the answers were so eminently satisfactory as to reflect great credit on the students concerned as well as on their teachers. It is hoped that the next competition will reveal an even higher degree of perfection.

OBITUARY

Sir James Knott

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, June 14.

Sir James Knott, B., the millionaire shipowner, and former Conservative M.P. for Sunderland, died yesterday at Samares Manor, his Jersey home. He was in his 80th year, and had been ill for some time.

Romantic Career

Before his retirement the late Baronet was one of the romantic figures of the shipping industry. At the age of 14 he was working in a shipping office at Howdon on the Tyne. At 20 he had become a ship-merchant and broker on his own account. The first vessel he owned was the collier brig Pearl, which he acquired for £185. From this modest beginning developed the Prince Line of steamships, of which Sir James was the head for many years. Having studied every feature of the mercantile marine, including engineering, he also took up the legal aspect, and in 1889 became a barrister of Gray's Inn.

M.P. For Sunderland

Sir James was a past president of the Institute of Marine Engineers. Before his retirement, he also had interests in collieries. He unsuccessfully contested Tyne-side in 1906, and was returned as a Conservative member for Sunderland in 1910. He was created a Baronet in 1917, and took as the motto for his coat of arms "Deeds not Words."

Sir James, who celebrated his golden wedding in 1928, lost his first wife a year later. In March, 1932, when he was 77 years old, Sir James was married at Monte Carlo by the British Vice-Consul to Miss Elizabeth Gamblett, daughter of Colonel V. C. Grant. Sir James had three sons, two of whom were killed in the war. The eldest, Mr. Thomas Garbutt Knott, who succeeds to the Bar-

Loh Fau is a mountain resort between Hong Kong and Canton where for many years campers have spent their summer holidays. The party from Hong Kong will be joined by a large contingent in Canton. They will either motor from Canton to the foot of the mountain or take the train to Shek Lung.

The motor journey will take only one day. The party will leave Hong Kong by the 10 p.m. boat, which arrives in Canton early the next morning. They will then charter cars and drive to the foot of the mountain, and walk or take chair to the top, arriving there at about 7.30 p.m.

Night In Monastery

If the campers take the other route they will have to walk from Shek Lung to Tsung Pak where they will stay the night at the Wanshan Monastery.

The matches, which have already been ordered, will be ready for the parties to break up into three different messes, which will have to arrange for their own food supplies.

SIR FREDERICK WHYTE

International Relations Institute Luncheon

Shanghai June 27.

The China Institute of International Relations gave a luncheon yesterday at the Bankers' Club in honour of two distinguished British visitors, Sir Frederick Whyte, formerly advisor to the Chinese Government, and Mr. Archibald Rose, a member of Council of the Royal Institute of International Affairs in London. Both Sir Frederick and Mr. Rose said a few words after the luncheon.

Sir Frederick said that he was here to gather information and not to give advice, as the chairman, Dr. P. W. Kuo, suggested. While he had no advice to give to the Institute, Sir Frederick said, that such organization as the Institute of International Relations was very useful both in educating the people in foreign affairs and in affording foreigners some representative opinions of Chinese people.

Interest In Britain

Mr. Rose told the members of the Institute of some work undertaken by the Royal Institute. He said some years ago the Royal Institute wanted to find out what China was thinking. This was indeed a hard task. The Institute began by subscribing to all the important Chinese newspapers in China and engaged a Chinese scholar to read them and select and translate the most representative editorial on various subjects and then published them in small pamphlets once every two weeks. At the beginning few paid any attention to them. But now, judging by the circulation of this pamphlet, the public was much interested in the work.

Among those present were Messrs. Singoh Hsu, P. W. Tsou, L. S. Nich, Herman Liu, Usang Ly, P. W. Kuo, T. B. Chang, Hollington Todd, and J. S. Tow.

WHIST DRIVE

Mount Sinai Manuscript Of The Bible

ALMOST CONSIGNED TO THE FURNACE!

Recently there was published in the news from Home that the sum of $100,000 had been paid to the Soviet Government for the Codex Sinaiticus. The idea was suggested to the Soviet Government through the firm of Maggs Bros., Conduit Street, London, well known to those who are interested in rare books. They have produced a copy of the manuscript. The British government supported the venture giving £50,000 towards the purchase price. The other £50,000 was raised by subscriptions from all sources, mostly collected in quite small sums. The King made a personal donation of £100 and the Queen of £50.

No country owes so much to the Bible as Great Britain, and this may be ascertained by anyone studying the history of Europe. It is not generally realised to what degree some of England's greatest leaders trusted in God's Providence. To mention only Cromwell, Wellington, and Nelson. The latter opens his despatch after the Nile with the words, "By God's grace we have this day won a most signal victory." Such being the case it is not surprising that such efforts have been made and such interest aroused in order to obtain the Codex Sinaiticus.

The Bible is the greatest heritage of the white races. Moses brought five books out of Egypt. That is he wrote down the knowledge he had in five books, in the ancient Hebrew tongue. During the centuries between Moses and the captivity various books were added. A learned doctor called Esdras codified the books more than five hundred years before Christ. Some scholars would maintain that the Old Testament as regards the Pentateuch was written by Esdras, and anti-dated in order to give Israel and particularly Judah a history. The Samaritan version, that is the Old Testament of Samaria is sufficient proof that this was not so, for Samaria was the enemy of Jerusalem and would not have accepted what Esdras wrote. Others say that Genesis had two authors, but such is only conjecture from different terms used for God in the first and other chapters. Although this conjecture is strongly supported by scholars, yet it falls to the ground before an examination of the purpose of the book and Moses. Esdras re-edited the Old Testament, but the first five mysterious books are undoubtedly the work of Moses, priest of Egypt.

At the end of the captivity the original meaning of the Hebrew seems to have been lost, unless an oral tradition preserved it among the Essenes of Mount Moriah. The language spoken became Aramaic, and then this was later mingled to Greek.

In the third century B.C. acting under instructions of the King, Ptolemy, a council of seventy assembled in Alexandria, and made a Greek version, which was called the Septuagint.

The New Testament was produced at a later date, probably at the end of the first century. No original copies of any of these books exist. The translators of the James Bible had no documents older than 516 A.D. The Revised Version completed by 1884 had access to older manuscripts, including copies of the Codex Sinaiticus. In the British Museum may be seen fragments of John's Gospel, only a few verses, which were found in the stuffing of a mummified crocodile, with other waste manuscripts, such as bills and poems. The date is estimated at not later than 150 A.D. and it is hopefully recorded as being the oldest portion of a gospel yet known.

The Sinai Manuscript is written in uncial script, in Greek. It is one of the earliest substantial texts of vellum manuscripts of the fourth century. There are only two; the Sinaiticus and the Vaticanus.

The Sinaiticus contains of the Old Testament, Genesis (fragment), Numbers (fragment), I Chronicles (portions), Ezra, (IX-3-end), Nehemiah, Esther, Tobit, Judith, I and 4 Maccabees, Isaiah, Jeremiah the Minor Prophets (except Hosea, Amos, and Micah), Psalms, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, Song of Songs, Wisdom, Ecclesiasticus and Job. The New Testament is complete, with two works which very nearly obtained admission into the Canon, the Epistle of Barnabas, and the Shepherd of Hermas.

The finding of the document in the monastery of St. Catherine on Mount Sinai, by the great German Biblical scholar Tischendorf, is an extraordinary story. On his first visit in 1844, Tischendorf found 129 leaves in a waste paper basket, about to be consigned to the furnace. Two other baskets had been consumed. 383 leaves survived, of which 347 are contained in the purchase from the Soviet Government. The other 46 leaves are elsewhere. Twenty five years of negotiations and intrigue passed before the documents were presented to His Majesty the Emperor of Russia. An outline of this and of the document's history may be had in a small pamphlet issued by the Trustees of the British Museum, 1934. This pamphlet, entitled, "The Mount Sinai Manuscript of the Bible."

JAPANESE IN AMOY NERVOUS

Menace Seen In Constant Official Disputes

Tokyo, June 26. Concern over the welfare of Japanese residents in Amoy in view of a reported state of uneasiness reigning there was expressed this morning by Foreign Office officials. The Japanese Consul, Mr. Tsuyoshi Tsukamoto, in a lengthy report filed yesterday, stated that Japanese residents in the Fukien city are viewing with alarm the rivalry and constant disputes between national and local officials. These, the consul charges, are corrupt and are only interested in fattening their private purses to the detriment of the welfare of the people.

Moreover, Mr. Tsukamoto reports that "malicious propaganda" alleging that Japan is planning to seize Amoy, to obtain a concession at Santau, a harbour opposite Amoy, is being spread by political agitators. Rumours of a plot to establish an independent "South China" Government are also heard, the consul stated. The Japanese in Amoy, who suffered heavily at the time of the abortive Fukien rebellion earlier this year, are fearing that the present political strife may lead to disturbances and jeopardize their lives and property.

Hi-Jackers? From usually reliable sources it is learnt that the root of the trouble in Amoy lies in illegal activities carried on by certain Formosan Japanese subjects which are strongly opposed by some Chinese officials and in which others, chiefly local officials, wish to share. On the night of June 19 a number of Chinese, said by the Japanese to be members of the local Public Safety Bureau, called on the office of the District Committee of the Formosan Guild and demanded admittance. When this was refused, they opened fire at the office, and according to the Japanese reports, looted it partially.

At 8 p.m. on June 22 there was another incident of a somewhat similar nature. Several Chinese then attacked the house of one of the principal Formosan residents and, when refused admission, laid siege to it. It is reported that the Formosans inside fired on the besiegers with pistol and were in turn fired upon. Very little damage appears to have been done.

There is a conflict of reports on the reasons for these incidents, but most point to it being an outbreak of what is known in America as hi-jacking. The Formosans concerned are said to be leaders in a smuggling and gambling ring. Those who attacked them are said to be either members of some official body or of a rival organization trying to get a cut out of the illicit profits being made.

It is said that in that part of the country there is a strong section in favour of the Central Government who have been attempting to clean up the corrupt local administration. The disputes and rivalry between local and government officials referred to in the message are believed to apply to the disputes occurring for this reason.

Wider Regulations In The "Gazette"

NEW MUZZLING ORDER

The regulations regarding the licensing as well as the muzzling of dogs are now extended to the mainland areas of the New Territories. This fact is announced in the latest issue of the "Gazette" where amendments to existing regulations are published.

It is explained that the amendments in effect extend the licensing of dogs to that part of the mainland portion of the New Territories which was excluded by one of the former regulations. It also extends the muzzling order but exempts sporting dogs in circumstances specified.

At the present time no regulation is suspended. The principal regulations, as now amended, are all in force.

The new Regulation No. 1 reads as follows:

1. No person shall keep a dog over the age of three months except under and in accordance with a licence from the Inspector General of Police. Provided that this regulation shall not apply to any dog kept in any dog home approved or authorized by or under these regulations, or to any dog kept in the non-mainland areas of the New Territories.

Muzzling Order
The new form of regulation No. 21 is as follows:

21.—(1) The provisions contained in paragraph (2) of this regulation shall not apply to the non-mainland areas of the New Territories, nor shall such provisions apply to any sporting dog when actually working under the charge of the holder of a game licence.

(2) No dog shall be allowed to go abroad in the public thoroughfares or elsewhere unless it is either muzzled or on the lead, and any dog found abroad in the public thoroughfares or elsewhere which is neither muzzled nor on the lead may be captured and detained, or may be shot or otherwise destroyed, by any police officer or by any person authorised by the Inspector General of Police. The owner of any dog so found shall be deemed to have allowed such dog to go abroad neither muzzled nor on the lead and to have contravened the provisions of this regulation. The owner of any dog which bites any person, or any other dog, at a time when and place at which it is required by this regulation to be either muzzled or on the lead, shall be deemed to have allowed his dog to go abroad neither muzzled nor on the lead and to have contravened this regulation notwithstanding any proof that the dog was wearing a muzzle or was on a lead, at such time.

The defendant pleaded guilty and said that she actually did not know it was unlawful to bring a dog to the Colony. She also said that the puppy was given to her by her friend.

A fine of $25 was imposed.

sion from the Colonial Veterinary Surgeon, Hui Yuk-chun, a married woman was fined $25 at the Magistracy on Saturday.

WEDDING

Mr. George Ng And Miss Hong Sling

A wedding of much interest to Chinese circles was solemnised at St. John's Cathedral on Saturday by the Rev. Lee Kou Yen, when Miss Jennie Hong Sling, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hong Sling of 9 Garden Terrace became the bride of Mr. George Ng Chun Bong.

The bride wore an exquisitely moulded wedding dress, beautiful in its simplicity. Made of sheer white chiffon velvet, the gown had a high neck-line that banded the throat, and a softly draped bodice. She carried a prayer book in place of a bouquet.

Miss Anna Thomas was maid of honour and the bridesmaids were the Misses Margaret To, Florence Chan, Eva Thomas, and Ell Hong Sling.

The duties of best man were performed by Mr. Lau Pong. The groomsmen were Messrs. Ho Sai Cheong, John M. Pong, Joseph Mark, and Liang Hau Kin.

The bridesmaids presented a pretty picture in dresses of orchid green, yellow and peach organdie. The maid of honour wore a dress of blue organdie.

After the wedding a reception was held at Gloucester Restaurant where over six hundred guests attended to toast the health of the newly-wedded couple. Mr. and Mrs. Ng will shortly be leaving for Shanghai as the bridegroom is an undergraduate at St. John's University.

A MINE DISASTER IN CHIAOTSO

Wheat Crop Ruined By High Winds

Hwaking, Honan, June 18. On the morning of Sunday, June 17, at about six o'clock, a serious explosion occurred in one of the pits at the Wang Feng colliery operated by the Chung Fu Mining Administration of Chiao-tso, Honan. This company is a Sino-British concern, embracing the interests of the Chung Yuan Mining Co. and the Pekin Syndicate. There is a British staff of about ten or twelve persons resident in and near Chiao-tso.

There had been a holiday on Saturday, the 16th, which was the festival of the fifth of the Chinese fifth month. About six in the morning on the Sunday thirty-one men went down the pit, headed by an experienced Chinese foreman. It is reported that the foreman first went ahead into the drift to be worked, and then came back for the men. An explosion occurred almost at once and it is supposed that it was caused by the breaking of a safety lamp, or by a defective lamp. Some men were killed instantly, and by the night of the 17th eight had succumbed. On the morning of the 18th only five of the thirty-one, who went down were living, and of these five, three were fatally burned. It is expected that the fatal casualties will be at least twenty-nine. This is one of the worst mine disasters in this district for some years, and calls forth the sympathy of all on behalf of the afflicted families.

Crops Ruined By Wind

After a wet spring and the promise of a fine wheat harvest, the country round about was struck by a high northwest wind lasting two or three days just when the wheat was ready to cut. The heads were prematurely dried, and much of the grain was blown to the ground. Some people lost almost everything, and generally the crop has been very poor. The price of wheat is going up, but farmers will have little or no surplus for sale. We have heard of at least three cases of suicide in the immediate vicinity due to despondency about the prospects for living through the next winter.

News comes from Sianfu, Shenai, of the prevalence in that city and district of typhus fever. The people are very nervous, knowing the severity of the disease. It is to be hoped that the situation does not reach epidemic proportions.

sion from the Colonial Veterinary Surgeon, Hui Yuk-chun, a married woman was fined $25 at the Magistracy on Saturday.

The dog was ordered to be sent to Kennedy Town for observation.

The Daily Press

HONG KONG, JULY 2, 1934.

THE RABIES OUTBREAK.

The rabies outbreak that is at present menacing the Colony is perhaps the worst we have had for some years and despite the fact that the authorities are doing their utmost to combat the outbreak, fresh cases seem to be reported at regular intervals. The latest one that has come to the notice of the authorities was reported from the "Old and New Kowloon" area on Friday. Curiously enough the outbreak appears to be confined to Kowloon and the New Territories, and following the death from rabies of a small girl in the Kowloon Hospital, stringent regulations regarding the muzzling of dogs have been enforced during the past few weeks.

In view of the number of new cases that have been reported from time to time and in order to deal with the outbreak at its source, as it were, the Government has decided to extend the regulations regarding licensing of dogs, as well as the muzzling provisions to the mainland areas of the New Territories. This decision was announced in the latest issue of the "Government Gazette," extracts of which are given elsewhere in this issue.

We contend, however, that regulations, no matter how stringent, are not sufficient to combat the menace. The co-operation of dog-owners is a sine qua non in a matter of this nature and it must be given unreservedly. In this connection we would appeal to all dog-owners to see that their pets are given plenty of water during these hot days and also to see that they are not allowed to mix with strange dogs. One other thing dog-owners can and should do is to have their animals properly muzzled, especially when they are taken out to bathing beaches. There have been cases where the lack of consideration on the part of one single owner by letting his dog romp about the beach without a muzzle has spoiled the enjoyment of a large number of people. Letters have appeared in the Press regarding the matter and if this is persisted in, perhaps the Police can help by setting an example—"arresting" any dog or dogs that may be seen running about the beach without a muzzle. The Magistrates of the Colony are doing their part by increasing the fine for offences under the "muzzling ordinance" to $25, but as stated above, the combat against rabies is one of the many things that cannot be achieved by any single department or individual. Co-operation is vitally important, and because the outbreak is such a serious menace to the Colony, we trust that this co-operation will be given by every member of the community without reserve.

"POCKET BATTLESHIP" LAUNCHED.

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Wilhelmshaven, June 30.—"Admiral Graf Spee," the third "pocket battleship" of the sample navy allowed to Germany under the Treaty of Versailles glided smoothly into the sea here on Saturday amidst the thunderous cheers of a large crowd including the survivors of the once-renowned victorious squadron of the Battle of Coronel—Admiral Count Maximilian von Spee who together with 110 officers and 2,000 men including his two sons went down with his cruiser squadron in the Battle of Falkland Islands on December 8, 1914. The late Admiral's daughter, Countess Bertha von Spee performed the christening ceremony while the present head of the German Navy, Admiral Raeder, delivered the christening speech.

The new miniature battleship of the treaty limited 10,000 ton size, is one which the Versailles terms allow Germany to build as a replacement for four antiquated ships left to the nation after the war.—Transocean Kuo Min.

The new office, an integral part of the Ministry of Economics, is announced to have two goals—the reduction of the use of foreign produced raw materials due to the pressure of Germany's shortage of foreign exchange and encouragement in all possibilities the production and utilization of native raw materials. If Gossip We Must

By PRUDENCE

All anxious: these punters are all asking whether their "bet" will come in.

Hongkong Society is rather inclined to be static....people like to meet the same old crowd at the same old place all the time. All through the winter the little ball-room at the Hongkong Hotel has held undisputed sway....the word went round that it was "the thing" to dance there and consequently the place was packed to capacity on all occasions....but when the hot season comes our dancing daughters (and wives) simply have to alter their orientation to suit the weather....and then the wheel of fashion rolls round in the direction of the Repulse Bay Hotel!

And truly it would be hard to find a lovelier place for hot-weather dances....The new "Bamboo-Lounge" is quite the prettiest and most artistic cocktail-corner on the Island. The broad verandah is ideal between dances, for one can always find a fresh breeze from the sea, and hear the waves breaking on the beach, out there. The big dining room is most attractive, ringed round by lamp-lit tables where gay parties forget their cares, or couples sit absorbed under the changing lights, and I do adore the way they always dim the lights for each waltz, and set the silver ball revolving to swing its myriad spotlights over the shining dance floor!

Kaili's Hawaiian Troubadours proved a big attraction at Repulse Bay on Saturday night and the place was crowded.

GAY PARTIES

A great many well-known people gave dinner-parties for the occasion. Among the early arrivals I noticed Mr. Meadow who brought a crowd along, and Mr. Croucher who had a big party which included Mrs. Rolfe, (looking brilliant in a dress of orange and white flowered chiffon, worn with a fascinating necklace of turquoise balls, which exactly matched her slippers) and Madame Montargis, who looked extremely chic all in black.

Others who booked tables last Saturday were Mrs. Thomas, Dr. Woolley, Mr. Choy, Mons. Dedieu, Mr. McCormick, General Cohen, Mr. Bigazzi and Mr. Chailinor. The Commodore and Mrs. Elliot and Lieut. F. N. Elliot came later, with a number of gay young people, and I thought that Mrs. Elliot looked most charming in white.

A PERSONALITY

I have watched Mr. Gosano so often playing football, and know that he has captained many a winning side....so it was rather intriguing to find that he is equally at home in a ballroom.

The two pretty girls with his party paid a charming compliment to the "Troubadours" by wearing Hawaiian garlands with their dainty dance dresses.

There is no denying that "Kaili's Hawaiian Troubadours" scored a big success. Not every artist can "put it over" without the help of a stage and footlight....but Queenie and David scored a thundering success on their very first entry. Queenie is quite unique. She is very fat and very pretty, and Oh Boy, has she personality? That gay but wicked twinkle in her eye is quite irresistible!....she had every man in the room helping to carol the chorus of that lilting melody "You-hoo"....and one of them at least, got soundly kissed.

Pearl, too, made a great appeal and is a skilful dancer, with her alluring skirts of grass and ribbons and her anklets and necklets of brilliant flowers.

Altogether a very gay and satisfactory evening's entertainment.

WHERE HAVE THEY GONE?

It is sad to see so many vacant shops in Gloucester Arcade, and where have all the people gone? I don't know. Can any of my readers tell me?

It seems a pity that rents have to be so high. Women here would prefer to do their shopping in the best part of the town, but they simply can't afford the high prices which are necessitated by the very high rents....so they have to trek off to Cotton Street off Queen's Road and Des Voeux Road (where prices are not quite so steep). But it is quite tragic to have our beautiful Arcade wasted in this manner.

There has been a sort of general post in the smart shops just lately. Mrs. Elder (who made such a success as the maid in "The First Mrs. Fraser") has decried the "Caravan" in favour of Gray's Lantern Shop. Miss Fair was there the other day and seemed so much at home that I could not decide whether she was buying or selling! Mrs. Turnbull (who was in the Lantern Shop) is now Mrs. Bryte's right-hand at Malzee's where her charm and personality are sure to prove an asset. Mrs. Bryte, by the way has the reputation of being the best-dressed woman on the Island, and certainly gets some perfectly stunning outfits, and knows how to wear them too.

In between races at Happy Valley.

Subsidies for the educational institutions, the Railway Guards, and hospitals will be cut down, he said. This decision has been reached because the railway's revenues have dropped by 2,000,000 roubles following the opening of the Lafa-Harbin line.

Plot To Undermine Hitler's Power

RUTHLESS ACTION AGAINST TRAITORS

Captain Roehm's Fall From Grace

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright))

Berlin, June 30.

Germany on Saturday remained the model of peace and order despite the rapid fire of dramatic political events including the expulsion of the former Chief of Staff, Ernst Roehm, from the National Socialist Party, the arrest of several high Stormtroop leaders and the shooting of the ex-Chancellor, General von Schleicher and several others while resisting arrest.

A proclamation issued by the Fuehrer in the afternoon states "on this day I have removed the Chief of Staff, Roehm, from his office and expelled him from the Party and the Stormtroop organization. I herewith appoint group leader Lutze to the post of Chief of Staff. All Stormtroopers not obeying or acting contrary to his orders will be expelled from the Stormtroops and the Party or arrested and brought to trial."

CONFIDENCE ABUSED

A detailed account of the events leading up to this action was given in a statement issued by the National Socialist Party's Press department which says, in part, "For many months individual elements have attempted to drive the wedge in order to create antagonism between the Stormtroops and the Party as well as between the Stormtroops and the State. The Chief of Staff, Roehm, in whom the Fuehrer had placed great confidence, not only failed to oppose these endeavours but undoubtedly encouraged them. Without the Fuehrer's knowledge he entered into communication with General von Schleicher. Since these machinations extended to negotiations with a foreign power—also without the Fuehrer's knowledge—it was no longer possible to avoid taking action in the interest of the Party and the State."

RUTHLESS EXTERMINATION

The discovery of incidents which have evidently been carefully planned caused the Fuehrer, who had been inspecting the Labour camps in Westphalia, to fly at two o'clock early on Saturday morning from Bonn to Munich in order to attend to the immediate removal from office and the arrest of the most heavily incriminated leaders. The Fuehrer with a few companions at once proceeded to Wiessee on Lake Tegernsee—where the Roehm group was vacationing—in order to nip in the bud any attempt at resistance. In the execution of the arrest, the conditions of such moral depravity revealed that every trace of pity is bound to vanish. The Fuehrer has ordered ruthless extermination of this corruption so that in future millions of people will no longer be burdened and compromised by the actions of a few pathological individuals. The Fuehrer, moreover, has empowered Premier Goering to take similar action in Berlin and especially to "smoke out" the reactionary allies of this political plot.

"SERVICE OF HONOUR"

On Saturday forenoon the Fuehrer addressed a meeting of high Stormtroop leaders who had assembled in Munich, assuring them of his unshakable determination to keep faith with the Stormtroops but at the same time to ruthlessly exterminate all undisciplined, disobedient and morbid elements. Hitler then pointed out that the duties of the Stormtroops constituted service of honour for which 10,000 Stormtroopers have made heavy sacrifices and that he expected every Stormtroop leader to show himself worthy of these sacrifices and serve as a model for his follower. He stressed that he had for years protected Roehm against all attacks but that the latest developments had forced him to take action in order to nip in the bud and put an end for all time attempts to propagate a new revolution in ludicrous circles and ambitious individuals.

SCHLEICHER AND WIFE

An official report of the death of General von Schleicher recounts that, during last week it had been ascertained that Schleicher had maintained contacts which were dangerous to the State both with the Stormtroops, the General Staff and the foreign powers. It was proved that he, in both word and deed, had been active against the present State and leadership, making his arrest necessary as part of a general clean-up. At his arrest by plain clothes men, General von Schleicher drew his gun and in the ensuing exchange of shots was mortally wounded together with his wife who attempted to intervene.

THE NEW CHIEF

A special expulsion order by Premier Goering on Saturday afternoon ejects from the Prussian State Council the former Chief of Staff, Roehm, the stormtroop leader, the provincial president and the chief of police of all Silesia, Heines, and the Stormtroop Brigadier Generals, von Dettin and Ernst.

The newly named Chief of Staff of the Stormtroops, Viktor Lutze, served as a post official in his native province of Westphalia till the war in which he rose to the rank of Battalion Commander but was forced to retire by the loss of one eye. Returning to the business profession, Lutze entered the Stormtroops and rose to the highest rank of the organization "over group leader," and at the age of forty-three last spring was appointed President of the Province of Hanover by Hitler—Transocean Kuo Min.

SEVEN DEAD

Munich, June 30. It is officially stated that seven high-ranking Stormtroop leaders were shot dead in the course of Saturday's vigorous purging action.

The list of dead includes such well-known names as Heines of Silesia, the Berlin commander Ernst von Heydelbreck of Pomerania and Count Sprei of Munich. No official word has yet been given out regarding the fate of the former Chief of Staff, Roehm.—Transocean Kuo Min.

ITALY REASSURED

Rome, July 1. Chancellor Hitler's suppression of the revolt has reassured Italian fears that Nazi control is weakening.

Great satisfaction is felt that he has shown his strength.—Reuter.

CAPTAIN ROEHM DEAD?

Berlin, July 1. Berlin is returning to its normal life. Reuter's chief correspondent, in a midnight motor tour of the city saw crowded open air cafes and the usual crowds strolling in the pleasure quarter, but members of the armed police were more evident than usual.

Cologne, Munich and Hamburg are also quiet.

There appears to be no doubt that Captain Roehm is dead. It is believed that he committed suicide.—Reuter.

VON PAPEN SUSPECTED

Berlin, July 1. Everyone is debating the probability of General Goering becoming Vice-Chancellor in consequence of von Papen's suspected complicity with the Nazi plottings. Vice-Chancellor von Papen is still confined to his house.

Von Papen, though he has been released from protective custody, is not allowed to leave his flat.

It is rumoured that two of von Papen's adjutants have committed suicide.

Yesterday's sensations followed so rapidly that the nation did not have time to form any judgment, but generally the executions are regarded as welcome for purging the Party.

The general public has no pity for the executed persons who were responsible for many excesses, behaving like Eastern satraps in their own districts. As an example, Captain Ernst was responsible for suppression of Elizabeth Berner's film Catherine the Great. Ernst was ex-headwaiter and gave voluptuous entertainments, while Heines in Breslau was responsible for many brutalities, entering houses of suspects at night time and mercilessly shooting them up.—Reuter.

Hermann Goering, the Prussian Premier, Chancellor Hitler's right hand, man in the hour of Germany's trial. There is talk about the probability of his becoming Vice-Chancellor in place of Franz von Papen, whose loyalty is under suspicion.

TRAITORS AND MUTINEERS SMASHED

Berlin, July 1. The crisis in the Nazi party is believed to be over. Blomberg Commander-in-Chief of the Reichswehr, has issued an order repealing the State Emergency proclamation yesterday and permitting soldiers to go on leave. Blomberg's manifesto says that the Navy and Army are standing loyally behind Hitler.

A leader with soldierly determination and exemplary courage himself, he attacked the traitors and mutineers and smashed them. The Army, Navy and bearers of arms of the whole people stand aloof in this inner-political strife and will thank the leader by devotion and loyalty.

Good relations are demanded by the leader between the Army, Navy and Stormtroops to continue on the basis of joint ideals.—Reuter.

LIST OF DEAD TO BE ISSUED

Berlin, July 1. A further official list of the dead will be issued to-night.

General Goering, acting under special authority from Chancellor Hitler has placed General Daluge in charge of Nazi Stormtroops in Berlin and Province Brandenburg.

All criticism of summary shootings and discussion of his orders and actions have been forbidden by General Goering. In the meanwhile July leave granted to all uniformed Nazis is remaining in force. The wearing of Nazi uniforms is forbidden.

Berlin, outwardly is completely calm, but a constant stream of messengers afoot and on motor-bicycles reflects the hectic activity of the Government.—Reuter.

SCHLEICHER SHOT DEAD

The ex-Chancellor, General von Schleicher was shot dead while resisting the arrest of Captain Roehm, and leading subordinates have been gaoled.

General Goering officially stated that during the past few weeks a little clique of Stormtroop leaders had tried to make a second revolution and to destroy the state, and this both he and Herr Hitler were determined to suppress them.

Seven have been arrested. The Stormtroop leaders shot include the Silesian leader Heines, Captain Ernst (Berlin) and Captain Schnelldorfer (Munich).—Reuter.

SHANGHAI'S HEAT WAVE

First Foreign Fatality

Shanghai, July 1. The first known foreign fatality due to the heat is Lieut. Joseph Frederick Johnson, 33 years old, chief engineer of the United States transport Chaumont, who died last night aboard his ship after collapsing in the street.

He was a member of the 1925 Class Annapolis.—Reuter.

HENDON AIR DISPLAY

First Accident Since Inception

London, July 1. Squadron Leader S. P. Collett, the son of the Lord Mayor of London, was killed at the Royal Air Force display at Hendon today when a day bomber, in which he was observer, crashed from a height of 100 feet and burst into flames 100 yards from the crowded public enclosure in which his wife was watching the display.

The pilot crawled out from the wreckage with only slight injuries. The display was continued. The pageant had been held for the last fifteen years and this is the first accident.

It is understood the pilot's engine failed when he was diving past the Royal enclosure and had to come down otherwise he ran in danger of shooting over the crowd.—Reuter.

CHINA'S IMPORT TARIFF

Revisions Effective To-day

Nanking, July 1. The revised import tariff is taking effect from to-morrow. The most important change is probably the reduction of the duty on cotton by five per cent, while the duties on metal, chemical products and luxuries will be increased.—Reuter.

Peiping, July 1. Sir Alexander Cadogan has returned from Wei-Hai-Wei.—Reuter.

WIFE ALSO DEAD

General von Schleicher's wife was killed at their villa at Neubabelsburg, a fashionable suburb in Berlin, when the police went to arrest her husband.

He drew a revolver and exchanged shots with the police when his wife threw herself between those firing and was mortally wounded.—Reuter.

HITLER RETURNS BY AIR

Berlin, Later. Herr Hitler returned to Berlin to-night by air from Munich accompanied by Dr. Goebbels.

He was received at the aerodrome by General Goering, Dr. Frick, Minister of the Interior, and Herr Himmler, leader of the Secret Police.

It is officially stated that Chancellor Hitler was "spontaneously and enthusiastically greeted" en route to Berlin from the aerodrome.—Reuter.

CONDITION OF MR. ROSS

Danger Passed

Chefoo, June 30. The latest bulletin regarding Mr. J. P. Ross, third officer of the s.s. Shuntien, who was badly wounded when pirates seized the ship at the mouth of the Yellow River on June 17, states that the doctor feels that he has survived the dangers of the attack.

As to his ultimate condition, no definite statement is yet possible. The back part of his head was literally pulverised and his brain injured, but his injuries do not appear to interfere with his faculties except his vision.

He is expected to have full use of his fractured arm when the bone unites.—Reuter.

HO CHIEN'S MISSION SUCCESSFUL

Shanghai, July 1. General Ho Chien, Governor of Hunan, has arrived from Hong Kong. He told Reuter that his mission, the prime objects of which were to remove misunderstandings between Nanking and Canton and arrange co-operation in Hunan and Kwangtung against the Reds, has been successful.

He is remaining in Shanghai for two or three days and will then see Marshal Chiang Kai Shek to submit a report on his mission.—Reuter.

SIAMESE ROYALTY ON COAST CRUISE

Copenhagen, June 30. Their Majesties the King and Queen of Siam are coast-cruising off Denmark for a few days and are then going to Hamburg.—Reuter.

The London on New York cross-rate at 2.00 p.m. to-day was 5.04/16, compared with 5.05.13/16 at closing yesterday.

ECONOMY PAY CUTS AT AN END

Financial Relief To A Wide Community

London, June 30. To-morrow will bring financial improvement to more than four million people in Great Britain, for in accordance with the decision announced by the Chancellor of the Exchequer in his budget speech, July 1 will mark the end of nearly three years of economy pay cuts.

Unemployment benefit will be fully restored to the 1931 level concession, costing the Exchequer over four million pounds a year. At the same time all servants of the State will receive back half of the pay cuts borne since the 1931 crisis. This will cost the State another four million pounds in a full year.

Those affected include Ministers of the Crown, Members of Parliament, judges, civil servants, teachers, police, insurance, doctors and chemists as well as members of the Navy Army and Air Force.

When the Chancellor announced the concession he said, "We can venture to remove a substantial portion of the load we have been carrying without fearing that presently we shall have to put it back," and he expressed the belief that this relief to such a large portion of the community and the world itself will hasten the process of recovery.

Another cheerful piece of news is that the official returns of unemployment during June, although not yet available in detail, are expected to show that approximately another 25,000 people have found work during the month.—Reuter.

PEKING-MUKDEN TRAIN BOMBED

Englishman Reported To Be Killed

Tokyo, July 1. A Japanese report from Shan-haikuan states that he first through express from Peking to Mukden was bombed in the vicinity of Luta.

An Englishman whose name has not been ascertained, is reported to have been killed.—Reuter.

FOUR KILLED AND ELEVEN INJURED

Shanghai, July 1. The bomb explosion mentioned in Tokyo's message occurred in a third class car fifty miles eastward of Tientsin.

Four persons are reported to have been killed and eleven injured.

The incident caused consternation among the passengers, but the damaged car was uncoupled from the train, which resumed its journey. The injured were conveyed to Tientsin.

The explosion fuels Japanese predictions that hostile elements will create an incident as an expression of disapproval of the through traffic agreement.—Reuter.

A CROWDED TRAIN

Peking, July 1. After an interruption of more than thirty months, through traffic was restored at 8.45 a.m. when the Ping Shen express left for Mukden.

The train was crowded with passengers, mostly for stations inside and outside the Great Wall. In addition to 16 Chinese railway police, the train carried seven Japanese gendarmes as guards. This is understood to be part of the through traffic agreement though it is not included in the published version.

Thousands of interested spectators including many foreigners saw the train depart.—Reuter.

CEYLON ABANDONS FREE TRADE

Colombo, June 30. Ceylon has abandoned free trade for the first time in history. The State Council, by a big majority, has passed a scheme of protective tariffs levied against eggs and other foodstuffs from India.

Thus, the Japanese textile quota, if passed will not be the first departure from free trade.—Reuter.

GOVERNING OF CHINA

Draft Constitution

Shanghai, June 30. Mr. Sun Fo, President of the Legislative Yuan, in an interview with Reuter this morning, said that the Legislative Yuan had completed the revision of the draft constitution, the text of which would be published soon. The salient points are as follows:—

That the National Assembly be convened once every two years.

That the office term of the delegates be four years, one delegate to be elected in every 300,000 people.

That the President be responsible to the country.

That an Administrative Political Affairs Commission consisting of 20 persons be created and the members appointed by the President.

The revised constitution has two additional chapters, one dealing with military and the other with finance.

The former provides that military officers are unable to become President nor interfere in politics. The Governors of the provinces are to be appointed directly by the Government.

Mr. Sun Fo said that the draft constitution will be brought up at the general meeting of the Legislative Yuan for discussion after the recess, and will later be forwarded to the National Assembly for adoption.

Mr. Sun Fo said that he was going to Honolulu during the summer recess for the benefit of his wife's health.—Reuter.

NEWSPAPER BAN LIFTED

Shanghai, July 1. The "Hua Pei Jih Pao" has been instructed by the Central Kuomintang to resume publication. The paper is the organ of the Central Publicity Department and was suspended early last month for publishing a report averring that the Central Political Committee had approved of the through traffic agreement.—Reuter.

AUSTRALIA'S TRIUMPH

Racing The Clock To Beat England

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 14. One of the most remarkable Tests in the whole history of the series ended to-day in a sensational victory for Australia.

Though they won by 238 runs, the real margin was to be measured in time, the last wicket falling with only ten minutes to spare.

An hour earlier it had looked as if England would save the match. The general opinion among old Test players was that the same had been as good as won by Australia overnight and then, with W. M. Woodfull's delay in declaring, it had been politely handed back to England by the Australian captain.

Woodfull's confidence in his bowlers proved justified, but it was a desperately near thing.

Ames was beaten by a beauty from O'Reilly. Garry, one of the heroes of the first innings, was brilliantly caught by Chipperfield off Grimmett for a duck.

With O'Reilly bowling there came an ominous snick, a great roar from the fieldmen, and Leyland, England's last bulwark, was out, caught at the wicket. Could Farnes and Mitchell last 25 minutes? Farnes supplied the answer by touching one from O'Reilly, and Oldfield, keeping wicket brilliantly, held the catch.

The poor Mitchell, the small, bespectacled slow bowler, was now left the dreadful responsibility of saving England. Men tried to comfort themselves with memories of wonderful last-wicket stands, but they were asking too much. O'Reilly comes lopping up to the wicket, a beautiful spinner beat the batsman all the way, and the match is over. Australia has drawn first blood.

There were cheers and calls for Woodfull, McCabe, Grimmett, O'Reilly, Chipperfield, Oldfield, and Braeman. From the English room came Cyril Walters, whose gallant captain's knock had given him top score, to speak a few words to the crowd. "It was a great game, as I think you will agree. We look forward to the second Test. May the better team win!"

Visit To the King

The Australians have been invited to Windsor Castle to be presented to the King and Queen.

The team will go to Windsor on Sunday, and their Majesties will see them in the afternoon.

LEG-THEORY

A new and surprising development in the controversy on fast leg-theory bowling arose yesterday, writes a correspondent.

Two first-class counties, it is stated have informed the Nottingham club that if this form of attack is exploited in the matches against them this season they will refuse to arrange fixtures next year.

The Nottingham officials denied any knowledge of this new turn of events when they were approached. It is, however, well-known in cricketing circles that deep resentment is being left towards the methods used by Larwood, Voce, and Butler in recent games, and such a step is not considered beyond possibility.

Few counties, of course, could afford to drop their fixtures with such gate-drawing rivals as Nottingham. Among those who could are Middlesex and Lancashire, who have, I understand, contemplated drastic action this summer. Middlesex are said to be prepared to leave the field and allow Nottingham to claim the points.

At Horsham I observed a tendency among the Nottingham team to encourage Larwood and Voce to bowl to an orthodox field. This, after the first day, became Larwood's policy, and the attitude indicates that his fellow players are not unaware of the disapproval which is being felt by some of the other counties.

The question that now suggests itself concerns the Australians when they meet Nottingham on August 11. They may find themselves facing an attack precisely similar to that which they had to meet in Australia.

Whatever counter-move Woodfull may decide to make if this should happen it will, obviously, be strengthened if not influenced by the report that some of the English counties have threatened to take action.

A statement that Larwood has been asked to play in the second Test match was denied yesterday on behalf of the M.C.C. Selection Committee.

I learn that two fast bowlers have been invited to play for the Gentlemen of England in the match against the Australians which begins on Saturday at Lord's. They are Kenneth Farnes and H.D. Read the new Essex fast bowler.

KENT WIN IN AN INNINGS

The remarkable match at Brentwood between Essex and Kent came to an end at 3.30 yesterday, leaving Kent victorious by an innings and 192 runs. Five batsmen scored over 100 runs, and in all 1414 runs were scored for the loss of 24 wickets. The bowlers, however, were not without their triumphs and Freeman's feat of bowling 85.1 overs for 178 runs and 11 wickets was outstanding. Yesterday his figures were 34.2.13.60.6. During the match Ames was instrumental in the dismissal of seven batsmen.

Essex added 42 runs yesterday morning for the loss of their three outstanding wickets, and of that 42 O'Connor made 25 and so became the fifth batsman in the match to make 100. His 105 does not seem much in comparison with some of the other scores this match has produced, but it was scored in two hours, and was not only most enjoyable to watch but was of immense value to his side.

Essex duly followed on and T. N. Pearce wisely sent in O'Connor to continue his innings. O'Connor, who seemed to be seeing the ball very early, quickly scored 25 and was then out to that top-spinning ball of Freeman's which has got so many batsmen leg-before-wicket. The total was then 35 and two more wickets fell while it was raised to 42. Cuthbert was caught in mid-wicket through getting a long-hop on the bottom of his bat and Pope caught at the wicket off a ball that turned quickly.

Absorbing Play

During the next half-hour the cricket was absorbing. There was conflict in the air—Pearce and Nichols were determined to save the match and Freeman and Wright to win it. Only an occasional single was scored, a contrast indeed to the flood of boundaries on Wednesday, but it proved how dreary a game of cricket would be if its "brighter" enthusiasts had their way and batsmen were penalized every time they failed to hit a 6. Nichols was very uncertain at the start of his innings, and when he had made 6 Woolley, at first-slip, dropped him off Wright. Wright was worrying the batsmen as much as Freeman, a tribute indeed, but he was too many of his leg-breaks, following the batsmen to leave them safely alone.

Pearce and Nichols survived until luncheon, when the score was 78, but afterwards Essex had a very bad time and eight wickets were down for 115. Pearce drove Freeman to long-on grandly for 4 but the next ball spun away abruptly to the edge of the bat and Woolley took the catch low down with his right hand—one "spot" at any rate, had a material existence. At 92 Nichols was leg-before-wicket to what looked to be a genuine googly from Wright, and Taylor, Eastman, and P. Smith all fell to the diabolical combination of Freeman, the undoubted "spot" on the wicket, and the triangular combination of Ames at the wicket and Ashdown and Woolley in the slips. The match seemed as good as over when Sheffield joined C.T. Ashton, but as it happened some of the best cricket in a quite astonishing game was still to come.

It was delightful to see Ashton throw his left leg across and drive the ball through the covers—everything he does would meet with the approval of the Fosters and the great batsmen of the pre-war years. His footwork was perfect. In the over in which he reached his 50 he swept Woolley round to the boundary at square-leg and drove him for 4 to long-on, and he followed this up by driving both Freeman and Woolley for 6's. He and Sheffield put on 88 runs and then Sheffield was caught close in at short-leg off Ashdown, who had the new ball. R. Smith was immediately checked out of yet another hundred.

INTER-SCHOLASTIC SPORTS UNION

Large Gathering At Prize Giving

Despite unfavourable weather conditions, the Committee of the Inter-Scholastic Sports Meeting concluded their labours when the prizes won at the recent sports were distributed to the successful athletes at the Queen's Theatre at 9 o'clock yesterday morning.

Of the schools and colleges, which participated in this big meeting, Wah Yan College was the most successful and won the athletic and aquatic sports championships with an aggregate of 163 points. The Sai Nam College took the second place with 118 points.

In the "Girls' schools" and colleges the Sai Nam Girl School captured the championship trophy with an aggregate of 150 points, the Queen Tak Girl School being second with 97 points.

WASH OUT OF BOWLS ON ISLAND

Bowling Green Club Record Meritorious Double

For the second time during the month of June, the lawn bowls programme on the Island was completely washed out when the heavy rains on Saturday afternoon made the greens unfit for play.

Only two games were consequently played, these being the games between the Kowloon Bowling Green Club and the Kowloon Cricket Club which resulted in the former bringing off a "double."

The K.B.G.C. seniors, although they bowed in defeat on two of the rinks, pulled through as a result of a very fine effort by Guy's rink, who won their encounter by a margin of 15 shots giving the team victory by four shots.

The K.C.C. Juniors were defeated by nine shots, Overy's rink being level with Thompson's on the last head.

In Hong Kong, the Hong Kong Football Club, and the Electric had already commenced to "roll up" when a heavy shower caused their encounter to be abandoned. Hopes of playing were entertained to as late as 5 o'clock, when another shower completely washed away all hopes.

The Civil Service and Police Recreation Clubs' Greens became sheets of water after the first heavy shower while the Craigen-gower Cricket Club's green suffered a similar fate.

FRENCH TROOPS TO WEAR SHORTS

History Made By Shanghai Detachment

Shanghai, June 27. While soldier sons of France and her Colonies in Algeria, Morocco and Indo-China sweat under torrid skies while wearing knee-breeches, or pantaloons, the French Forces in Shanghai have succumbed to local weather and influences, and have adopted shorts.

This step will make French military history, for never before have shorts been an official uniform in the service. The innovation applies to troops in Shanghai, Tientsin, Hankow and Canton.

Next week will witness the first appearance on parade of French troops in shorts, as by that time one infantry battalion will have been issued with them. The remainder of the troops in the area will be equipped as soon as possible, which will mean another week or so. The men are pleased with the change.

Practical Kit

The French are a practical race, and the local French Military Headquarters decided that the British summer uniform shorts were decidedly practical, and worth adopting. So they have adopted them.

"British and French women at home follow each other's fashions closely" it was stated at French Headquarters yesterday. "And in Shanghai, where we French soldiers are neighbours of the British, we are following a British fashion in military dress."

Not only were shorts worn by British troops here, it was pointed out, and a number of civilians had also adopted them in the past few years, and the kit had proved its worth.

The loose-collared tunic and cravat will continue to be worn as summer uniform, as there is no

CHINESE A. A. GALA

Exciting Medley Relay Race

There was a very large attendance at the Chinese Athletic Association's aquatic sports on Saturday night when a programme of ten races was successfully carried out, in spite of a strong wind and a slight drizzle during the proceedings.

The main attraction on the programme, was the 150 yards Medley Race in which each club provided three men each swimming fifty yards. The V.R.C. entered for this race, but by their supremacy over the back and breast strokes, the Chinese A.A. were able to account for this race.

Lionel Roza Pereira represented the V.R.C. in the back-stroke, but he met his match in Lo Po Hey, China's National Back stroke champion who was able to show a slight lead over Pereira. In the next fifty yards which was to be covered with the breast stroke, Lam Yiu managed to increase the lead for the Chinese A.A. being much faster than E. M. Marques of the V.R.C. When W. Lawrence took the water in the last fifty yards, he was fully ten yards behind Yeung Man Kit and although he made a big effort to catch up, he failed in the task, finishing three yards behind the Chinese representative. The victory was loudly cheered by the vast gathering. There were six teams in the race.

As might be expected, Lo Po Hey and Lam Yiu were the outstanding swimmers at the gala. Lo Po Hey won the 100 metres free style event from Yeung Man Kit, while Lam Yiu won the 800 metres for men, with Lo Po Hey finishing second. Lam Yiu was also the winner of the competition for throwing the water polo ball.

A string band under Mr. Andrew Chan provided an excellent selection of music during the evening. The prizes were distributed by Madame Tsai Ting Kai, wife of General Tsai Ting Kai, the hero of the 18th Route Army.

The results were as follows:—

Intention of putting the forces in shirt-sleeves. Shorts are to be used for manoeuvres, drill and, probably, ceremonial, or, in other words, on occasions when troops parade in large numbers.

Not for Americans

Five or six years ago it was mooted that the 4th Regiment of the United States Marine Corps might go into shorts, but there was opposition to the idea and it was dropped.

The Marines will continue to wear their regulation garb, including "glads" and uniform caps. It was stated at headquarters yesterday. The announcement sets at rest rumours that the "Leathernecks" were about to don shorts because of the hot weather. An easier schedule of duty, however, will be enforced beginning next month, in accordance with Marine regulations.

WIZENED ZARO AGHA

Incidents In His Life

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Istanbul, June 29.

The world's oldest man at last left it on Friday when the wizened Zaro Agha, the Turk who claimed to be 165 years old was gathered here to his eighteenth century fathers. The cheery old "near-immortal" startled the world five years ago, by his apparently irrefutable claim that he was born in 1770, the same year as Beethoven and before the American revolution began.

Quickly dubbed as one of the wonders of the world, the aged Agha was speedily sent upon a merry-go-round of two continents by astute Press agents. At the height of his American tour, the aged Turk met with a motor accident but on his recovery he looked more active than ever. Some time after he had flown over London, Agha told reporters that "the trip was not dangerous at all compared with the ups and downs of his various married lives."

Recently lured into the laboratory of Professor Voronoff for scientific examination as regards his age, Zaro Agha was deeply displeased with the experts in their ungenerous judgment that he was "over 120 years old." Many citizens here therefore have been moved to think that Voronoff's verdict has cut short not only Agha's age claim but life itself.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Twenty-four German aviators under the leadership of Bruno Loerzer, the famous war ace and president of the "German Sport Flyers Association" alighted at Heston airfield on Friday to attend Saturday's grand annual army airshow at the invitation of the British Government. SPANISH LAND DISPUTE

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Gibraltar, June 29.

The grave conflict arisen between the Spanish Central Government and Catalonia over the Catalan law of cultivation contracts was underlined by the news that the Spanish Mediterranean fleet has been ordered to proceed from Algiers to Valencia because Madrid anticipates serious disorders in Barcelona.

It will be recalled that the law was recently re-enacted by the Catalan Cortes despite the fact that the Madrid tribunal of constitutional guarantees declared it unconstitutional. The Catalans are openly threatening the secession, but Madrid Government is said to be determined to assert its authority at all costs.—Transocean Kuo Min.

BRITISH MILITARY COMMISSION

Private Visit To France

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Paris, June 29.

Following on the heels of General Weygand's visit to London, a British Military Commission, headed by the War Minister, Lord Haldane composed of the Chief of the General Staff, Sir Archibald Montgomery-Massingber and forty officers arrived here unheralded for what is termed to be "a private visit to the battlefields on the Aisne."

The French papers are remarkably reticent in commenting upon the visit but it is assumed in diplomatic quarters that the British military chiefs will, despite the privacy of their journey, find an opportunity for discussion with their French colleagues the question of military co-operation guaranteeing the security of France and the neutrality of Belgium and Holland.

It is pointed out that Lord Haldane is known to be an ardent advocate for such co-operation and that the fact that he is accompanied by the chief of the Imperial General Staff suggests the importance of the visit.—Transocean Kuo Min.

MISS MASON WINS THREE TITLES

West Of Scotland Tennis Finals

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 14.

A series of well-contested final ties marked the concluding stages of the West of Scotland Lawn Tennis Championships Tournament at Pollokshields, Glasgow, on Saturday, when a large crowd saw only one of the senior titles—the mixed doubles—change hands. The two junior championships also are now in the possession of new holders, but in neither case was last year's winner defending on this occasion.

D. MacPhail, jun., and Miss W. A. Mason retained their respective singles titles by winning in straight sets, but were well tested by their respective opponents. R. R. Finlay started in promising style against MacPhail and secured the first two games. However, the holder replied by taking the next three games to lead 3-2. He was again in front at 4-3, but Finlay revealed his fighting qualities, winning the next game, to level the score, only to lose the first set two games later.

Fine Passing Shots

The Newlands man played fine tennis at the start of the second set, and, after losing the first game, he got ahead to 3-1 as the result of some beautiful, passing shots which caught MacPhail on the wrong foot. From this point the holder began to vary his length with fine judgment, however, and Finlay only managed to secure one of the next six games, MacPhail again winning the set in the tenth game.

The first game of the third set also went to MacPhail, but Finlay again got to 3-1, making some magnificent recoveries from MacPhail's acutely angled strokes. The holder fought hard to reduce Finlay's lead, but the latter got to 5-3, only to lose grip, and a run of four games gave MacPhail his straight-set victory.

Miss Mason's heavy driving proved too much for Mrs. Harvey in the opening stages of the women's final and although the latter rallied, she lost the first set at 6-3.

So far the match had been contested mainly on the base lines, but Mrs. Harvey began to tempt Miss Mason to the net at the beginning of the second set, and the holder's middle-court game was not impressive. The result was that Mrs. Harvey led 3-1 and then 6-3, but Miss Mason levelled the score at 5-all, and then, after four more games had taken the score to 7-all, won in the sixteenth game.

Holders Extended

The men's doubles encounter went to the full extent of five sets, the holders—R. R. Finlay and D. B. Fulton—having a hard first set to repulse the challenge of D. MacPhail, jun., and J. T. Hill.

The opening set was level all the way for the first twelve games, each of which went with the service. Finlay and Fulton then broke through Hill's service, and Fulton held his to secure the first set for his side. The first seven games of the second set went against the service to give the holders at 5-3 lead, and they won the second set next game.

The best play up to this point had come from Finlay, who was often brilliant, and MacPhail, who played a steady game. Hill had been erratic, but began to show improvement at the start of the third set, and he and his partner won it fairly easily, profiting by a number of errors on the part of Fulton.

The fourth set also went to MacPhail and Hill, but Finlay and Fulton recovered in the final set, and won it with something to spare. In the last set Fulton touched his best form and some splendid smashing sealed the fate of the challengers.

A. M'Vic and Mrs. R. Harvey, the holders, seemed well set for another lease of the mixed doubles title when they won the first set from D. MacPhail and Miss W. A. Mason for the loss of only two games and led 2-love in the second set. Their opponents, however, got to 5-2 and then won the second set at 7-5, and in the third set there was no doubting their superiority, the holders securing only one more game.

Final Results

Men's Singles.—D. MacPhail, jun. (Pollokshields) beat R. R. Finlay (Newlands) 6-4, 6-4, 7-5.

Women's Singles.—Miss W. A. Mason (Pollokshields) beat Mrs. R. Harvey (Pollokshields) 7-5, 9-7.

Mixed Doubles.—R. R. Finlay (Newlands) and D. B. Fulton

CARNERA AND BAER

In Battle Of Words

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 14.

Despite the drought and the depression, America is quickly chucking over the little war of words now being waged between Max Baer, the film-star boxer, and Primo Carnera, the giant, Italian world's heavy-weight champion.

Baer meets Carnera for the title at Madison-squares Garden Bowl, Long Island, on Thursday. And he has been telling America just how—and when—he is going to beat the Italian.

The good-looking Baer has a pretty wit—that is, in the talking-picture manner. To him, Carnera is merely "a big kick, a dumbbell and a bozo."

Yesterday, modest Mr. Baer made the announcement that: "I have never predicted a knock-out for any of my fights before, but this time."

"The fight may not last even ten rounds," he added. "I might accidentally slug him on the chin in the opening round and knock him out."

Dempsey Joins In

Meanwhile, Jack Dempsey, the former champion, who is financially interested in Baer, has been doing some forceful talking.

"If Max has got into real shape, fights from a crouch, and pour right-handers into Carnera's body, he will win," said Dempsey. "But if he is not in proper condition and tries to box this big guy, he'll take a terrible licking."

Astrologers, it seems, share Baer's opinion. They say that the stars predict a knock-out win for him in the seventh, eight or ninth round.

And Carnera? He merely says: "I don't say I'll knock out Baer; but if I do."

The fight "ballyhoo" extends to the boxers' training quarters. The report that Baer is not yet fit brings a smile from those who say he is indulging in "clown-training" to hood-wink journalists!

Carnera, it is said, has lost 10 lb. as a result of a cold he contracted at an open air film show.

His big fight problem, however, is not the disposal of Baer, but of forty complimentary tickets among about four hundred friends.

ITALIAN WARSHIP VISIT

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Tirana, June 29.

Contrary to other reports, the official Albanian Press Bureau states on Friday that the recent call of the Italian warships to the Albanian seaport, Durazzo, was not previously agreed upon between the two Governments nor had the Albanian Government been notified of the visit.

The recent appearance of the Italian fleet before Durazzo, has been widely interpreted as a demonstration against Barthou's visit to Belgrade, an assumption which, however, was strenuously denied in official Italian quarters.—Transocean Kuo Min.

More Victims For Harold Larwood

(Special Air Mail Service)

Leicestershire found the task of getting 242 runs to avoid an innings defeat beyond their powers, and Nottingham comfortably by an innings and 53 runs at Leicester.

Larwood had two short spells of bowling and did well to take four wickets for 43, making his record for the match nine at a cost of a little over nine runs apiece.

Corrall, the Leicester wicket-keeper, who usually bats No. 11, stayed with Shipman while 40 runs were added for the second wicket, and his all-round ability on the drying pitch surprised the crowd. Besides showing a sound defence, Corrall pulled with power, and some of his glances to leg were good to watch.

FAST SCORING BY SURREY

Batsmen sprinting from the pavilion to the wicket, and some amazing hitting brought a final thrill to Surrey's match with Derbyshire at the Oval.

Surrey needed 137 runs to win. And only 68 minutes were left for play! From the start, however, the batsmen went for runs, the winning hit being made with ten minutes to spare and only three wickets down.

When Surrey lost Fishlock at seven, Gregory went for the bowling. Hitting a 6 and six 4's, he made 50 out of 82 in 37 mins. McMurray did his share, and when he left at 99 Holmes raced to the wicket as Brown had done. By fierce hitting these two forcing batsmen put Surrey in front of the clock. Holmes hit Townsend for three 4's and a two in an over, the last 28 runs scored in eight minutes.

Derbyshire made a great effort to save the match. They began the day with four men out for 38, and did not expect that either Skinner or H. Elliott would bat. The possibility of their side avoiding defeat, however, induced the two injured men to go in, and Elliott stayed forty-five minutes. Smith also batted pluckily for 4 hours 40 minutes without giving a chance. He hit sixteen 4's, sharing in a stand of 138 with Ford.

HOME BOWLERS FLATTERED

Glamorgan were within 12 runs of Northamptonshire's total at the close of play here yesterday with half their wickets in hand. The visitors, who are still without a victory this season, batted poorly.

Half the side was not out for 80 before Matthews helped Timms to add 24, when both left. The remaining wickets fell quickly. Northamptonshire being all out in three, and a quarter hours for 129.

Bowling his off breaks, Clay took five wickets for less than eight runs each. Nevertheless, the bowlers were flattered, for, apart from Bakewell and Timms, the batsmen never showed the slightest confidence.

A fine stand between Dyson and Turnbull who scored 70 together in as many minutes for the second wicket put Glamorgan in a good position, but then occurred a collapse, four wickets falling for the addition of 19 runs, so that half the side were out for 94. Matthews, who bowled with plenty of place was mainly responsible for this, but Smart hit out bravely before the close to put Glamorgan in a strong position.

THE CHAMPIONS IN TROUBLE

Middlesex had all the best of the first day of their match with Yorkshire, the champion county, yesterday. Brilliant bowling, supported by good fielding, soon had the visitors in trouble, and they were all out for 174. I. A. R. Peebles taking five wickets. Although not making a good start when they batted, Middlesex closed the day 35 runs behind Yorkshire with seven wickets still to fall.

Yorkshire, it must be said, lacked the services of Sutcliffe, Verity, and Leyland. After Mitchell had been caught at 21, Hutton and Barber added 54 in just under an hour before Hart, by brilliant fielding, had Barber run out. From the next ball Hutton was finely caught at mid-on low down by Muncer, whose fielding was outstanding.

Within an hour after the interval Yorkshire lost three, more wickets for 41 runs. Not one batsman played the excellent bowling with complete confidence. Peebles, who bowled for an hour and a quarter on end, took all these wickets.

Yorkshire's four hours of plodding came to an end at the tea

ARMS COMMITTEE ADJOURNS

Geneva, June 29.

The Committee appointed by the Disarmament Conference to decide measures of execution proposed by the Arms conference adjourned on Friday after determining all save one, execution measures in which the world is greatly interested—the action to be taken by the Pact signatories in the case of actual infraction of international peace. The main accomplishment of Bourquin's report is an attempt to define four categories of new international crime and punishment.

The minutest infractions to draw a simple admonition from the "control organ" on the spot, reprobations which will gain miscreant nations similar messages from the "Permanent Disarmament Council" while in cases of going beyond the sphere of a mere irregularity into that of serious violations, signatories will follow up diplomatic steps with application of embargoes both in arms and raw materials. But after the definition of the all important fourth category—the threat of war or infraction of the Kellogg Pact—the committee's report falls either to define or recommend the measures of the pact enforcement to be taken by the signatory nations. Bourquin's reports will go directly to the chairman of the Disarmament Conference, Mr. Henderson.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Interval for a total of 174. Turner's caution was rewarded with 51, scored out of 94 in two and a quarter hours.

Peebles, who took five wickets for just over 13 runs apiece, secured four of these for 39 in his long spell immediately following lunch. Smith bowled Turner and Smalles with deliveries which came in at a great pace, and took the middle stump.

After an inauspicious start, in which they lost three wickets for 82, Middlesex recovered with a stand between Hulme and Muncer. After his usual shaky opening, Hulme set about the bowling in a most aggressive manner. He made one straight hit into the pavilion enclosure and drove on each side of the wicket with great power. Muncer kept his end up well, and the pair were still together when stumps were drawn.

CAUTIOUS BATTING

Sussex, batting first on a rather soft pitch here yesterday, made cautious progress against a keen and accurate Nottinghamshire attack, and as the close of play they had scored 235 for the loss of four wickets.

Larwood again bowled well, and made a number of deliveries get up awkwardly. The fielding reached a high standard.

The batsmen played carefully against fast and accurate bowling, but steady scoring took the opening stand to 155 before Langridge was well caught deep on the leg side for a capital 66.

A. Melville batted with splendid confidence, especially against the fast bowlers, but, with the score up to 226, he was bowled by a fine ball from Voce. In all, the second wicket stand yielded 71 runs. Nottinghamshire then met with some measure of success, both Cook and James Parks being disposed of for the addition of only 8 runs. Batting for four hours and three-quarters, Parks showed superb defence against an accurate attack, and it was only at times was tedious to watch, it proved of tremendous value to Sussex. Parks hit only five 4's.

Stewarts And Lloyds Issue

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 14.

The prospectus is published today of an issue of £550,000 Four per Cent. Debenture stock of Stewarts and Lloyds. It is offered preferentially to the company's shareholders and Debenture stockholders at par, and the list will be open on Friday. The stock represents the unissued balance of an authorized total of £3,300,000, of which, however, £750,000 has simply been deposited as collateral security for fluctuating overdrafts. The previous public issue, of £2,000,000 stock, was made in January at 98 per cent, and this stock now stands at 103 1/4, a price that includes, roughly, £1 of accrued dividend. The new stock is being sold to provide funds for expenditure on the development of the company's great new undertaking at Corby. Assets of the company give a capital cover for the £2,550,000 stock which will be publicly issued of 4.34 times, and a cover for the whole authorized issue equal to 3.38 times. Calculated on the average profit for the last five years the service of the £2,550,000 of stock is covered 4.74 times. This average figure was £604,101, whereas the profit for the past year amounted to £688,820, and neither of these amounts, of course takes into account the beneficial effect on the company's earning capacity that is anticipated from the capital expenditure at Corby. A sinking fund will be provided calculated to redeem the whole issue by 1977.

COMING INDUSTRIAL ISSUES

Within the next few days arrangements which have been under consideration by several leading industrial companies for the placing of new capital are likely to be completed. In January last Stewarts and Lloyds placed privately £2,000,000 of Four per Cent. Debenture stock at 98, and at the meeting of the company in May the chairman said that it would probably be found necessary to issue the £550,000 stock held in reserve at an early date, in which event perennial allotment would be made to the share holders and holders of existing Debentures. An announcement regarding the offer of £500,000 of this stock may be expected very shortly. The price of the existing stock, which carries accrued dividend amounting to approximately £1, is about 103 1/4. On Monday holders of the £1,810,000 Five per Cent. First Mortgage Debenture stock of Lewis's, Limited, met at Liverpool to vote on a resolution for modifying the trust deed. This motion is connected with the project which the directors have already mooted of making an early offer to the Debenture holders to convert their stock as the alternative to being repaid at par on March 1, 1936. On Tuesday next shareholders in the British Aluminium Company meet to vote on certain financial proposals, which include a large addition to the share capital. It has already been explained that the underlying object of the directors is to reduce the somewhat onerous annual charges in respect of prior obligations for which the company is responsible. Doubtless the company's programme will be fully explained at the meeting, but meanwhile it would appear that if it is carried through as intended a material improvement in the capital structure and a substantial saving in fixed charges will be achieved.

ROYAL DUTCH REPORT

The report of the Royal Dutch Petroleum Company for 1933 shows a balance of profit of £130,546,306, against £128,393,892, and an even smaller figure in 1931. But, of course, the total looks small compared with the prosperous years from 1928 to 1929, when the total exceeded £1,100,000,000. The dividend on the Ordinary shares is again 6 per cent, and the balance carried forward is increased from £1,278,805 to £1,547,472. In arriving at the profit there has been deducted £1,599,835 for losses on exchange. The total of the balance-sheet, £1,201,431,817, shows a slight increase over the total for 1932. An interesting change in the balance-sheet, however, is that the shares in various companies which are valued at cost price, have risen from £132,094,100 to £139,696,337. This increase is the result of a participation in a capital issue of the Anglo-Saxon Petroleum Company to an amount of £200,000, and in an issue of £200,000 by the Asiatic Petroleum Company. The report makes some shrewd observations on the monetary problem which Sir Henri Deterding and his colleagues rightly believe to be closely related to the disturbed economic position. The following extract shows the trend of their thoughts, which no doubt arise from their experience in conducting a world-wide business:— "In former times politics followed trade, but nowadays trade has to accommodate itself to politics,

GERMAN SHARE MARKET

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright))

Berlin, June 29.

The sharemarket in the week-end was at its lowest ebb, prices in all sections having dropped. Fixed interest securities were in better demand than for some time past so that the decline in prices noticeable last week appeared to have stopped. Call Money 4 to 4 1/2.

The week just closed proved very unsatisfactory on the share market, the volume of business done being small and prices were mostly tending downwards. Both operators and investors showed excessive caution largely because of the anxiety as to the outcome of the transfer negotiations in London. Moreover, the end of this week coincides with the close of the month and the termination of the half year.

Fixed interest securities in all classes continued to drop until Friday when a resumption of the activity in certain sections was reported and the price sag stopped.—Transocean Kuo Min.
